Pakistan Blasts Taliban Regime for Twisting Facts on Istanbul Talks

ISLAMABAD: Amid a fragile ceasefire between Islamabad and Kabul, Pakistan on Saturday rejected the "deliberate twisting of facts" attributed to the Afghan Taliban's spokesperson, Zabihullah Mujahid, regarding the recent Istanbul talks between the two countries.

In a statement posted on X, the Ministry of Information said Pakistan had demanded that terrorists based in Afghanistan and posing a threat to Pakistan either be controlled or arrested.

"When the Afghan side claimed those individuals were Pakistani nationals, Islamabad immediately proposed that they be handed over through designated border crossings, in line with its long-standing position," it said.

"Any claim to the contrary is false and misleading," the statement added.

The clarification came after Zabihullah Mujahid told a private news channel that during the Istanbul negotiations, the Afghan side had offered to deport individuals considered security threats by Islamabad — a proposal Pakistan allegedly declined.

He alleged that Pakistan had instead asked Afghanistan to restrain those individuals within Afghanistan rather than deport them. —RT/Agency

India Plotting to Keep Pakistan on Edge Across Both Fronts: Khawaja Asif

ISLAMABAD: Defence Minister Khawaja Asif said on Saturday that India wanted to keep Pakistan busy and engaged on the eastern and western fronts amid tensions with Kabul and New Delhi.

Pakistan and Afghanistan agreed to continue a ceasefire between the two countries following a rapid deterioration of ties and a brief conflict along their shared border last month. The Istanbul talks followed a sharp escalation in tensions that saw Pakistan launch Oct 9 airstrikes on Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan sanctuaries in Afghanistan, triggering Oct 11 border clashes that continued for days before a ceasefire was formalised in Doha on Oct 18-19. The Istanbul agreement came after days of deadlock that nearly brought the process to a halt, with mediators pulling both delegations back to the table even as Pakistan's team had already begun preparations to return home.

Meanwhile, an uneasy peace persists between Pakistan and India after this year's May conflict earlier this year that led to a United States-brokered ceasefire. Since then, Indian political and military leadership, including chiefs of the military branches, have continued to make aggressive statements, repeating terrorism allegations that Pakistan has repeatedly refuted and also warning of "geographical changes" in the course of any future conflict. "If there is a need for evidence, then we have it, about what involvement India has in terrorism (in Pakistan) and how it wants to keep us busy on two fronts: the eastern and western," said the defence minister while talking. He added that Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi was "silenced" after the defeat led to India during the May conflict and expressed hope that talks with Afghanistan would reach a reasonable conclusion.

"Everyone is onboard — politicians, the establishment and the Pakistani nation — that an immediate solution to the Afghanistan issue is very necessary, which is that terrorism from Afghan soil should be completely stopped," said the minister in reference to the country's western neighbour. Asif said the preferable solution would be for both states to maintain a civilised relationship. The second round of negotiations with Afghanistan produced a three-point understanding — the continuation of the ceasefire, the establishment of a monitoring and verification mechanism to ensure peace, and penalties for violations. —RT/Agency

Shehbaz Promises a New Era of Development for Gilgit-Baltistan

ISLAMABAD: Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif has reaffirmed the federal government's commitment to providing the people of Gilgit-Baltistan with every possible opportunity for development, ensuring that the region plays a full and active role in Pakistan's national mainstream. Speaking on the occasion of Gilgit-Baltistan's Independence Day, the Prime Minister extended his warm congratulations to the people of Gilgit-Baltistan as well as to the entire nation, highlighting the historical significance of November

1, 1947. "On this day, the brave people of Gilgit-Baltistan demonstrated unmatched courage, unity, and patriotism, setting an inspiring example for generations to come," the Prime Minister said. He

Pakistani Farmers Take on German Giants in €1m Climate Damage Showdown

The Guardian reported. Lawyers for 43 farmers from Sindh have issued formal letters to both companies, signalling their intention to sue later this year. The farmers say their land was submerged for more than a

GB's Freedom Day Rekindles Kashmir's Unfinished Struggle: President Zardari

GB: As Gilgit-Baltistan marks its 78th anniversary of independence from Dogra rule, President Ali Zardari on Saturday said the region's freedom serves as a reminder of the unfinished struggle of their brothers and sisters in Indian-occupied Jammu and Kashmir (IOJK).

Speaking at a ceremony marking the 78th Independence Day, the president said that over the past seven decades, the people of Gilgit-Baltistan had stood shoulder to shoulder with the rest of Pakistan.

"You have guarded the borders, driven progress, and carried Pakistan's flag to the world's highest peaks. This region is not only the crown of Pakistan but also our northern gateway — a symbol of our enduring friendship with China," he added.

The president noted that the region offered the best of itself — both to the rest of the country and to the wider world.

President Zardari stressed the need to renew the collective commitment to transforming Gilgit-Baltistan into a model of development, justice, and equality. "While you enjoy liberty and rights under the flag of Pakistan, our brothers and sisters across the border continue to face occupation and repression. We stand with them until they attain freedom in accordance with the UN Security Council resolutions and their aspirations," he added. —RT/Agency

Power Struggle in AJK: PPP Split Over Next Prime Minister

MUZAFFARABAD: A fierce tussle has erupted within the PPP's Azad Jammu and Kashmir chapter as Chaudhry Yaseen and Faisal Rathore emerge as top contenders for the premiership. Despite a marathon meeting, deep divisions persist among party factions led by Sardar Yaqoob Khan, Chaudhry Latif Akbar, and Yaseen.

Sources say Bilawal Bhutto Zardari will personally announce the final decision, with a no-confidence move to follow only on his or-

Mystery in Quetta Skies: Khawaja Asif Dodges Question on 'Secret Missile Test'

ISLAMABAD: A mysterious "lenticular cloud formation" over Quetta early Tuesday sparked widespread speculation about a possible missile test, after Defence Minister Khawaja Asif refused to confirm or deny the event. During an interview on Samaa TV's Mere Sawal on, Asif brushed off a direct question about whether Pakistan had conducted a hypersonic ballistic missile test in Balochistan. "Now don't ask all these questions. Ask such things in private," he remarked, sidestepping the inquiry and fueling intrigue across social media. The unusual cloud — captured in multiple photos shared online — appeared as a large, disk-shaped formation hovering over Quetta's skyline, prompting both curiosity and conspiracy theories. —RT

Fisherman Caught Spying for Indian Intelligence in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan's law enforcement agencies have arrested a fisherman working for Indian intelligence agencies to spy on Islamabad, Information Minister Atta Tarar and Minister of State for Interior Talal Chaudhry said.

Addressing a presser in the federal capital on Saturday, the information minister said that Ijaz Mallah was taken into custody by Indian authorities in September this year, before he was taken to an undisclosed location and was forced to do some task for them.

Indian agencies to procure uniforms of the Pakistan Army, Navy, and Rangers, along with local SIM cards and phone bills, for espionage purposes.

The information minister went on to say that Pakistani intelligence agencies monitored his activities and took him into custody. "Mallah was apprehended while returning to India after completing the tasks," Tarar said that Mallah had confessed to his crimes following his arrest. A video of Mallah's confession was released, in which he said Indian agents had threatened him with imprisonment if he refused to cooperate.

Tarar said India is reportedly unsettled by Pakistan's recent strategic and diplomatic successes, prompting such attempts at sabotage.

The information minister said that Pakistani intelligence agencies had been monitoring the activities of the spy.

"Our agencies began surveillance when Mallah was found purchasing uniforms of the Pakistan Army, Pakistan Navy, and Rangers," he said. —RT/Agency

Afghan Man with Suspected IS-K Links Arrested in France

UK: French anti-terrorism prosecutors have arrested a 20-year-old Afghan man in Lyon over suspected ties to the Islamic State's Khurasan branch (IS-K). The National Anti-Terrorism

Prosecutor's Office (PNAT) said the suspect was charged with participating in a terrorist organisation and financing terrorism. Authorities believe he maintained contact with IS-K operatives. The man, detained last week, has been placed in pre-trial custody as investigators probe possible links between the militant group's network and activities in France. —RT

Pakistan Pushes to Take Politics Out of Global Human Rights Debate

NEW YORK: While arguing that the Human Rights Council (HRC) must remain a forum for dialogue and cooperation rather than confrontation or politicisation, Pakistan has linked the establishment of durable peace and the protection of the respect for human rights to addressing all situations of foreign occupation and denial of self-determination. In a national statement during the presentation of the Report of the Human Rights Council in the General Assembly, Ambassador Asim Iftikhar Ahmad, Pakistan's Permanent Representative to the UN, mentioned Palestine and Jammu and Kashmir, where peoples continue to face oppression and dispossession. He

Bhutto from 1993 to 1996. He was repeatedly elected to the National Assembly on PPP's ticket. —RT

Torkham Border Reopens After 21 Days as Pakistan Begins Afghan Repatriations

KHYBER: A day after Islamabad and Kabul agreed to uphold a ceasefire during rounds of talks in Istanbul, Pakistan reopened the Torkham border crossing on Saturday to facilitate the repatriation of illegal Afghan refugees.

The repatriation of Afghan families from Pakistan was halted on October 11 due to border clashes between the two neighbouring countries. The clashes, which continued for several days before a ceasefire was brokered in Doha on October 19, had prompted Pakistan to seal all its borders with Afghanistan for trade and travel.

Nigeria Pledges to Crush Extremism After Trump Puts It on Watch List

ABUJA/WASHINGTON: The Nigerian government on Saturday vowed to keep fighting violent extremism and said it hoped Washington would remain a close ally after President Donald Trump added the West African nation to a US watch list over what he said were threats to Christianity. "The Federal Government of Nigeria will continue to defend all citizens, irrespective of race, creed, or religion. Like America, Nigeria has no option but to celebrate the diversity that is our greatest strength," its Ministry of Foreign Affairs said in a statement. "Nigeria is a God-fearing country where we respect faith, tolerance, diversity and inclusion, in concurrence with the rules-based international order," the ministry added. —RT/Agency

South Korea's Lee Seeks Xi's Help to Reopen North Korea Dialogue

SOUTH KOREA: South Korean President Lee Jae Myung sought Chinese President Xi Jinping's help in efforts to resume talks with nuclear-armed neighbour North Korea on Saturday, while Xi told Lee he was willing to widen cooperation and jointly tackle the challenges they face.

Lee hosted Xi at a state summit and dinner after an Asia-Pacific leaders' forum in the South Korean city of Gyeongju, marking Xi's first visit to the US ally in 11 years.

Beijing attaches great importance to relations with Seoul and sees South Korea as an inseparable cooperative partner. Xi said ahead of the summit according to Lee's office. Lee, who was elected president in a snap election in June, has promised to strengthen ties with the United States while not antagonising China and seeking to reduce tensions with the North. Vacated Afghan Camp in Karachi Turns into Hotbed of Thefts KARACHI: The abandoned Afghan Camp near Gulshan-e-Maymar has reportedly become a hub for theft and criminal activity following the departure of thousands of Afghan refugees who returned to Afghanistan under Pakistan's campaign to expel illegal foreigners.

According to local residents, groups of thieves have been operating in the vacated settlement under the alleged patronage of police officials.

Residents said they recently caught a group of thieves red-handed while they were stealing valuables — including brass, copper, and iron rods — from abandoned houses and loading them into a vehicle. The suspects were handed over to the police, but were allegedly released from custody shortly after being locked up.

They alleged that the gang of thieves belonged to a special party associated with the in-charge of the Afghan Camp police check post. —RT/Agency

Shameful Exclusion: PTI's KP Cabinet Turns Its Back on the Women Who Stood by Imran Khan

The all-male Khyber Pakhtunkhwa cabinet sworn in under Chief Minister So-hail Afridi is not just a disappointment — it's an insult to the very women who have been the backbone of the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf's political struggle. From the jails to the streets, women have faced harassment, arrests, and vilification while standing firm in their loyalty to Imran Khan. And yet, when it came time to share power, the doors of the KP cabinet were slammed shut in their faces.

How can the PTI claim to represent a new, inclusive Pakistan when its own government excludes half the population from decision-making?

The message this sends is regressive and reeks of hypocrisy. In a province already struggling with gender inequality, the absence of even a single woman in the cabinet is nothing short of disgraceful. As journalist Mariana Baabar aptly said, these "all-male clubs" are unacceptable — and should be unthinkable in 2025.

PTI cannot hide behind the excuse of "snatched reserved seats." Women can, and should, be appointed as advisers, special assistants, and ministers. There is no shortage of capable women — Ayesha Bano, Rukhshanda Naz, and countless others stand as living proof of that. The question is not whether they exist, but whether PTI has the will to empower them.

If this is how PTI rewards loyalty, courage, and sacrifice, then its leadership owes an apology to every woman who marched, campaigned, and suffered for the party's cause. This cabinet is not just a political blunder — it's a moral failure. The PTI leadership must rectify it immediately. There can be no true democracy, nor real Naya Pakistan, without women at the table.

Only three schools operate without transport, and local employment is minimal. The court directed the government lawyer to submit a report by November 14 on local jobs and social welfare initiatives by OGDCL. The Deputy Commissioner was also ordered to report on Petroleum Social Development Committee activities.

Viral Sky Stadium Video for Saudi 2034 World Cup Turns Out to Be AI-Generated

An AI-generated video claiming to show one of the football stadiums for the 2034 FIFA World Cup in Saudi Arabia made waves on social media this week, but it has nothing to do with the kingdom's official plans. The video of glowing arena built atop a towering skyscraper was shared by thousands of social media accounts, with millions of users believing it was the official visual revealed by Saudi Arabia. While Riyadh has unveiled plans to build a football area on top of a real estate complex in The Line, a futuristic new megacity project, the official plans bear no resemblance to the clip that went viral in recent days. "This design is completely fake and bears no resemblance to anything Saudi Arabia is planning. It appears in no official sources," a source close to the matter told AFP. Several French media outlets, which had referred to the viral video as a representation of the kingdom's official project, have since deleted or updated their articles.—Agency

“My Career Was Destroyed by Waqar Younis,” Umar Akmal Alleges in Explosive Interview

Former Pakistan cricketer Umar Akmal has made shocking revelations, claiming that his cricket career suffered the most damage at the hands of his own former head coach, Waqar Younis. Speaking in a recent interview on a private television channel, Akmal did not hold back as he leveled serious allegations against the legendary fast bowler-turned-coach.

According to Umar Akmal, the setbacks in his career were not a result of his performance on the field but were orchestrated by Waqar Younis out of jealousy. “My career was harmed the most by the head coach at the time, Waqar Younis,” Akmal revealed. “He used to say that I have already earned enough money. It wasn't my performance that he had an issue with, but his own envy that led him to sideline me and derail my career.”

The former batsman also claimed that he was not the only one whose professional journey was negatively impacted. “It's not just me. Several senior cricketers also suffered because of his actions. Waqar Younis didn't just target individuals, he systematically affected the careers of multiple players,” Akmal said, raising eyebrows across the cricketing community. In a dramatic twist, Akmal suggested that he possesses evidence to substantiate his claims.—Agency

Arsenal legend Willie Young dies aged 73

Arsenal legend and former Tottenham Hotspur star Willie Young has died at the age of 73, the club confirmed on Friday. In an official statement on X, Arsenal confirmed, “We are saddened to learn of the passing of former player Willie Young.” Making 236 appearances and winning the FA Cup in 1979, the Scottish defender was a cult hero at Highbury. Our thoughts are with his family and loved ones at this difficult time “Rest in peace, Willie.” Born in Edinburgh, Young began his career at Aberdeen in 1970 before joining Tottenham Hotspur in 1975. Two years later, he made a controversial move across North London to Arsenal, where he made over 230 appearances. He also played more than 180 games for the Dons before going on to lift the FA Cup with the Gunners in 1979. He collected a winner's medal in Arsenal's dramatic 3-2 triumph over Manchester United in the iconic “five-minute final” of 1979. The following year, however, Young became infamous for his foul on Paul Allen during the 1-0 FA Cup final defeat to West Ham. As the 17-year-old Allen raced through on goal in the closing stages, Young brought him down on the edge of the area. Although he was shown only a yellow card, the incident provoked nationwide debate about professional fouls and ultimately led to the introduction of a rule mandating red cards for denying a clear goalscoring opportunity two years later.—Agency

Babar Azam Shines Bright as Pakistan Crush South Africa to Seal T20I Series in Style

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan clinched the T20I series against South Africa in thrilling fashion as Babar Azam's graceful half-century led the hosts to a four-wicket victory in the final match at Lahore's iconic Gaddafi Stadium on Saturday. The former skipper's class and composure anchored Pakistan's successful chase of a modest 140-run target, sealing the series with confidence and authority. The home side faced early jitters when young opener Saim Ayub departed for a six-ball duck in the second over, leaving fans momentarily uneasy. With just eight runs on the board, Babar Azam walked in under pressure but quickly took charge of the innings. Partnering with Sahibzada Farhan, he stabilized Pakistan's chase with a vital 36-run stand before Farhan fell for 19, having struck two boundaries and a six. At 44 for 2, Babar joined skipper Salman Ali Agha in a momentum-shifting 76-run partnership that put Pakistan firmly in control. The pair combined elegance and aggression, rotating strike smartly and punishing loose deliveries. Agha contributed a fluent 33 off 26 balls, while Babar played the role of the anchor, crafting a classy 68 off 47 deliveries laced with nine exquisite fours. However, South Africa briefly clawed back into the contest. Lizaad Williams and Corbin Bosch struck in quick succession, removing Agha and Babar within five deliveries, sparking a mini-collapse. Pakistan suddenly found themselves losing four wickets for just 20 runs, including the cheap dismissals of Hasan Nawaz (5) and Mohammad Nawaz (0). With the crowd on edge, Faheem Ashraf and Usman steaded the nerves, guiding Pakistan home with six balls to spare. Their calm approach ensured the hosts wrapped up the series in style, finishing on 142/6. Earlier, Pakistan's decision to bowl first paid off handsomely. The returning Shaheen Shah Afridi struck twice in his opening over, dismissing Quinton de Kock and Lhuan-dre Pretorius for ducks. South Africa never fully recovered from the double blow, managing just 139/9 in their 20 overs. Dewald Brevis offered brief resistance with 21 off 22 balls, including two sixes, while Reeza Hendricks contributed 26.—Agency

Blair Tickner, Zak Foulkes Seal Tense Win to Complete 3-0 Sweep of England

New Zealand 226 for 8 (Ravindra 46, Overton 2-22) beat England 222 (Overton 68, Tickner 4-64, Duffy 3-56) by two wickets

New Zealand scrambled to a tense two-wicket victory in Wellington to seal a 3-0 sweep of the ODIs after England's top-order was felled once again. Jamie Overton slammed 68 off 62 from No. 8 to help England make a game of it but the armchair Ashes critics were given plenty more ammunition by another misfiring display before they hop across the Tasman.

It had appeared New Zealand would get the job done in routine fashion, as Daryl Mitchell anchored their chase of 223. But from 188 for 5 they slid to 196 for 8, with Mitchell the eighth man out for 44, edging Sam Curran behind. With more than 10 overs still to be bowled, however, there was time enough for Blair Tickner and Zak Foulkes to tick off the runs required in an unbroken ninth-wicket stand. Tickner had earlier claimed his second consecutive four-wicket haul after new-ball pair Jacob Duffy and Foulkes had knocked over the England top five inside 10.1 overs.

New Zealand's chase was given a solid start by a 78-run opening stand between Devon Conway and Rachin Ravindra. The run-out of 90mph/145kph during his opening spell. A checked drive for six over extra cover got him going, while Ravindra eased into gear with a series of boundaries off Brydon Carse. When Archer switched ends for the final powerplay over and saw it disappear for 24, New Zealand were 64 for 0 and coasting.

The stand was broken by a moment of fortune for England, with Overton again the catalyst as he attempted to field a drive from Ravindra only to see the ball deflect off his wrist, through his legs and into the non-striker's stumps with Conway stranded. Ravindra was then bowled through the gate by Curran, before Overton ended Will Young's unproductive series by having him caught behind off a steeping top edge.—Agency

Vaughan: “Stokes Will Expect to Win the Ashes — That’s His Mentality”

Michael Vaughan believes winning the Ashes would vindicate Ben Stokes' work as Test captain, adding the allrounder may prove to be England's most valuable bowler on “very English” Australian pitches.

With the first Test in Perth just three weeks away, the majority of England's Test squad are in New Zealand, either involved in the ongoing ODI series or training alongside it. The Ashes group will come together in Western Australia on Monday, where they will be joined by the England Lions who will help them prepare with a three-day game starting on November 13, eight days before the series opener at Optus Stadium.

Despite their last Test win on Australia soil coming in January 2011 - confirming a historic 3-1 success - and an aggregate 14-0 scoreline in the three tours since, England are optimistic. Much of that is down to the belief and more confrontational style instilled in the group by Stokes and head coach Brendon McCullum.

Results have dramatically improved under Stokes. He has personally overseen 22 wins in 36 Tests as full-time skipper, flipping a slump of one win in 17 prior to his appointment. However, England have yet to win a five-match series since he and McCullum took the reins at the start of the 2022 summer, which includes a 2-2 draw in 2023's home Ashes. They have also failed to make an impression in the World Test Championship, sitting sixth in the current cycle after drawing with India this summer.

Speaking at a Viago event, Vaughan, who marshalled England's 2005 Ashes success, ending an 18-year drought, feels the time has come for Stokes to mark his captaincy with some tangible success.

“I think they need a trophy,” he said. “I mean, would I take two-all now? Probably, let's be honest. In the last few series, 2010-11 is the only time that I've seen England have success. We won one Test match in 2002-03, we won three Test matches in 2010-11.—Agency

Litton: “Players Need Rest” — Cites Crowded Calendar After T20I Series Defeat

Litton Das has words of support for his players despite West Indies trouncing Bangladesh 3-0 in the home T20I series over the past week, only the second time in 12 bilateral home series where Bangladesh have been swept away. It came on the back of Bangladesh winning four consecutive bilateral T20I series since July this year.

Bangladesh couldn't chase down 166 and 150 in the first two matches, and West Indies then chased down a 152-run target quite convincingly in the third game on what Roston Chase said was the best pitch in the series.

“We have proven players in the current squad,” Litton said after the game. “One or two series, we can play like this. A player can go through a bad time for four or five matches. A batter knows where he has to improve. I am sure the batters will consult on those areas and focus the batting coach to make a comeback. If you change players every day, the results will be the same. A new player is unlikely to give you much more. So those who are playing cricket for a long time, it is better to go ahead with them to expect better results.”

Bangladesh's batting was woeful in this T20I series, with only Tanzid Hasan hitting consecutive fifties. In the third game, only Tanzid (89) and Saif Hassan (23) crossed double-digits as they collapsed from 107 for 2 to be bowled out for 151 in 20 overs.

Litton suggested that

Relief for India: Shreyas Iyer Discharged from Sydney Hospital — Stable and Recovering Well

Shreyas Iyer has been discharged from the Sydney hospital he had been admitted to for the spleen laceration, with internal bleeding, he suffered during India's third ODI against Australia on October 25, and “is now stable and recovering well”, the BCCI said in a statement on Saturday morning.

“The injury was promptly identified, and the bleeding was immediately arrested following a minor procedure. He has undergone appropriate medical management for the same,” the statement, quoting secretary Devajit Saikia, said. “He is now stable and recovering well. The BCCI medical team, along with specialists in Sydney and India, are pleased with his recovery, and he has been discharged from the hospital today.”

Iyer was treated by Dr Korush Haghighi and the team in Sydney help from Dr Dinshaw Pardiwala in India. The BCCI added, “Shreyas will continue to stay in Sydney for his follow-up consultations and will return to India once he is deemed fit to fly.”

The injury took place when Iyer took a catch running backwards from point to dismiss Alex Carey in the Sydney ODI. He immediately clutched his rib cage and signalled for medical attention. He was taken off the field and did not return for the remainder of Australia's innings.

India won the third ODI by nine wickets, but lost the three-match series 2-1 after going down in the first two games in Perth and Adelaide. They are currently 1-0 down after two matches in the T20I series that has followed the ODIs.—Agency

Cardi B Makes Hilarious Admission About Personal Hygiene

Cardi B has gotten honest about her hair hygiene. In a recorded clip from her recent livestream shared to X, the rapper admitted she has not “washed my s” in nearly two or three months while detailing her plans to finally give her scalp some TLC. “I probably got all types of roach eggs, mosquito eggs, everything in this,” Cardi joked as she tapped her head, which appeared to be covered with a wig cap. She added that she plans to oil her scalp, wash her hair, and braid it in the coming days.

For those unversed, the Bodak Yellow hitmaker has been candid about her natural hair journey over the years. Back in 2021, she shared throwback photos on Instagram while clapping back at critics who made comments about her hair texture as someone of mixed heritage, her mother is from Trinidad and her father from the Dominican Republic. “Since I was a child I have problems with managing my hair and couple years ago I find different methods that work for me and look at my length now.”

Had to Run”: Kathy Griffin Recalls ‘Controversial’ Joke Incident

Kathy Griffin has been cracking jokes on her tours, which sometimes do not amuse people. However, in a recent interview, she recalls a joke that forced her to run out of the theatre. “In a chat with People, she remembers, “I change my act every night and always start with local jokes.” The star continues, “Once, I read out the local offender list during a show and had to run out of the theater. I called Cher after, and she just said, ‘Get home, bitch. Get back to Malibu.’”

Elsewhere in the interview, Kathy shares that she contacted Jimmy Kimmel after his suspension over Charlie Kirk's comments. “It's been triggering for me because Jimmy was the only one who still had me on his show when everyone else said I was too dangerous,” she says, referring to her incident back in 2017 when she posted a fake severed head of Donald Trump. It is worth noting that her latest comedy tour, New Face, New Tour, will kick off on November 8.

ASAP Rocky and Rihanna Fuel Fresh Marriage Speculations

ASAP Rocky may have just confirmed what fans' speculations that he and Rihanna are secretly married. The 37-year-old rapper, born Rakim Mayers, recently referred to himself as a “loving husband” in a new interview as he reflected on family life with Rihanna and their three children: RZA, 3, Riot, 2, and one-month-old Rocki.

“Being a father and a partner and a loving husband in my family is what makes me really, really happy,” he told Perfect Magazine. He added that fatherhood and creativity now define his sense of purpose. “That's what honestly does get me going; being able to express myself creatively, being able to be a family man and being able to be an artisan.” Both he and Rihanna, also 37, have dropped hints before as well. When asked by Elle last month if he was “ready to be a husband,” Rocky teased, “How you know I'm not already a husband? I'm still not gonna confirm it.” The couple, who began dating in 2020 after years of friendship and music collaboration, first sparked engagement rumors in 2022 after being spotted with a diamond ring on her left hand. The couple then welcomed son RZA in May 2022. Riot following in August 2023, and later a daughter Rocki Irish Mayers on Sept. 13, 2025.

Ohio Man Forgets Winning Lottery Ticket at Home — Wins Another $500,000

ZANESVILLE: An Ohio man who forgot his $50 winning lottery ticket at home decided to buy another of the same scratch-off game and scored a $500,000 prize.

The Roseville man told Ohio Lottery officials he went to the South 60 Market in Zanesville, intending to cash in his $50 winning Best of 7's scratch-off, but he arrived and realized he had forgotten the ticket at home.

He decided to go into the store anyway and bought another ticket from the same game and scratched it off in his car.

The ticket turned out to be a $500,000 winner. The player said his winnings will go toward paying off his house, buying a new car and cutting back his workdays so he can spend more time with his family.—RT/Agency

Lost Dog Found Five Years Later, 520 Miles From Home

A pint-sized pooch who went missing from her family's Mississippi home about five years ago was reunited with her owners after turning up in a Florida city about 520 miles away.

Kristy Taylor and Josh Craig said their dog, a Chihuahua and dachshund mix named Penny, went missing from their home in Lucedale.

They never found out what happened to Penny until the canine was found wandering the streets of Deland, Fla., five years later.

Briana Rideout found Penny riding traffic on a city street and coaxed her inside the home she shares with her boyfriend, Daniel Lenoci. The couple cared for Penny while they posted on Facebook about the found pet.

The couple took Penny to a local shelter a few days later and a microchip scan showed she had been reported missing 520 miles away in Lucedale.

"I immediately said, 'How? How in the world does that happen?'" Rideout told the Daytona Beach News Journal.

Taylor and Craig made the drive to Florida on Wednesday and were reunited with Penny.—RT/Agency

Ozzy Osbourne Pumpkin Mosaic Breaks Guinness World Record

ENGLAND: A British farm celebrated the life of legendary rock singer Ozzy Osbourne by breaking a Guinness World Record with a massive squash mosaic in the musician's image.

Sunnyfields Farm in Southampton, England, arranged hundreds of pumpkins and squashes into an image of Prince of Darkness measuring 2,281 square feet.

The end result earned the Guinness World Record for the largest cucurbita mosaic (image).

The mosaic was unveiled at a ceremony attended by Osbourne's wife, Sharon, and daughter Kelly.

World's Most Expensive Coffee Goes on Sale in Dubai — Priced at $1,000 a Cup

DUBAI: Selling for nearly $1,000 a cup, a cafe in Dubai is offering the world's most expensive coffee, brewed from Panamanian beans sold at a premium price.

The wealthy emirate is known for its extravagant ventures including an enormous mall with an indoor ski area, the world's tallest building and an artificial island dotted with five-star hotels.

"We felt Dubai was the perfect place for our investment," said Serkan Sagsoz, co-founder of the Julith cafe with the pricey offering. Located in an industrial neighbourhood that has become a hotspot for coffee lovers, Julith plans to serve "around 400 cups" of the precious beverage starting on Saturday, Sagsoz told AFP.

For a price tag of 3,600 dirhams (around $980), the brew offers an experience of floral and fruity flavours of the reminiscent tea.—RT/Agency

Picasso's Portrait of Muse Dora Maar in Vivid Hat Sells for €32 Million

PARIS: A vividly hued Picasso portrait of longtime muse and partner Dora Maar that had remained hidden from public view for more than eight decades sold Friday at auction for 32 million euros (about $37 million), including fees — surpassing expectations but far from the artist's most expensive work ever auctioned.

Painted in July 1943, "Bust of a Woman with a Flowered Hat (Dora Maar)" depicts Maar in a brightly coloured floral hat. Maar, an artist and photographer herself, had been Picasso's partner and muse for about seven years, and the relationship was coming to a painful close. The work was purchased in 1944 and had not been on the market since, re-adding buyer fees to the 27-million hammer price — was not only well above estimates but also the highest paid at auction this year for any artwork in France.

Lucien called the painting "a little piece of the story of love" — albeit a bittersweet one — between Picasso and Maar.—RT/Agency

Trump Returns to 60 Minutes After Ending Legal Battle with Network

US: President Donald Trump is returning to "60 Minutes" this weekend, his first appearance on the show since he settled a lawsuit this summer with CBS News over the newsmagazine's interview with Kamala Harris. Trump was interviewed by CBS' Norah O'Donnell at Mar-a-Lago for the appearance, which will air this Sunday.

The president has an uneasy history with television's most popular newsmagazine. But he has signaled friendlier relations with CBS News after the takeover of its parent company this summer by new Paramount CEO David Ellison, the son of wealthy supporter Larry Ellison. CBS News offered few details on how the interview came together, or whether there were any ground rules put in place. O'Donnell, the former "CBS Evening News" anchor, is not one of the transcript of the conversation. Despite invitations, he did not agree to a "60 Minutes" interview during the 2024 election campaign. But he complained that the newsmagazine's interview with Harris, his Democratic opponent, was edited deceptively in order to make her look good.

CBS News strongly denied any wrongdoing, but Trump filed a lawsuit against the company. Paramount decided to pay Trump $16 million to settle the case this summer, shortly before the Federal Communications Commission approved Paramount's merger with Eli-son's Skydance Media.

In the wake of the Trump lawsuit, "60 Minutes" executive producer Bill Owens resigned this past spring, saying that it was becoming clear that he could no longer run the program independently. Since taking over at Paramount, Ellison has sent signals of a closer relationship with Trump. He hired Kenneth Weinstein, the former head of a conservative think tank and a donor to Trump's 2024 campaign, to serve in a role investigating complaints that the network had shown bias in its reporting.—RT/Agency

Hidden Bombs Haunt Gaza Despite Fragile Ceasefire

GAZA CITY: Moein al-Hattu's home has been ripped apart, its cinder block walls blown out into the street and a dusty grey bomb hangs menacingly from a damaged pillar, its tip resting on a crushed chest of drawers. Weighing more than a tonne, the munition was dropped during an airstrike on Gaza City during fighting between Israel and Hamas but has not exploded—yet.

"I'm living in terror and unable to remove it," al-Hattu told AFP, as children wandering through the rubble paused to marvel at the threatening intrusion. The grey-bearded Palestinian wants to hang tarpaulins from the shell of his bombed-out home and move back in, but has been unable to find anyone in Gaza with the skills or equipment to remove the giant bomb. "The relevant authorities, whether the civil defence or the municipality, say they can't remove it. Who can I go to and complain to?" he demanded.—RT/Agency

FBI Foils Suspected Terror Plot in Michigan

US: FBI Director Kash Patel said that the agency had thwarted a "potential terrorist attack" planned in the northern US state of Michigan over Halloween weekend.

Patel did not provide any details about the alleged plot but, citing law enforcement sources, said it was "inspired" by Daesh. "This morning the FBI thwarted a potential terrorist attack and arrested multiple subjects in Michigan who were allegedly plotting a violent attack over Halloween weekend," Patel said in a post on X.

"Through swift action and close coordination with our local partners, a potential act of terror was stopped before it could unfold." CBS said five people between the ages of 16 and 20 were arrested Friday, and one or more of them may have known a former member of the Michigan National Guard who was arrested in May for planning an IS-inspired attack on a US Army site in suburban Detroit.—RT/Agency

Trump Slashes Immigrant Visa Quota for 2026 in New Restriction Move

WASHINGTON: US President Donald Trump has set a new cap on the number of immigrant visas for 2026, allowing only 7,500 immigrants to enter the United States next year—the lowest limit since the enactment of the Refugee Act of 1980.

President Trump stated that his administration is reducing the number of immigrants in US history, emphasizing that immigration should not harm the country's national interests.

He further claimed that

"white Africans in South Africa are facing the threat of genocide," while noting that the current annual refugee cap stands at 125,000. The Trump administration also announced preferential treatment for white South Africans, a move that critics say echoes past discriminatory immigration laws in US history.—RT/Agency

Asif Hints at Breakthrough from Qatar-Turkiye Mediation Amid Pak-Afghan Tensions

SIALKOT: As Pakistan and Afghanistan agreed to uphold ceasefire following days-long talks in Istanbul to ease tensions, Defence Minister Khawaja Asif expressed optimism that mediation efforts by Qatar and Türkiye will yield positive results. Asif revealed that the issue of Afghan nationals has, for the first time, been raised at the international level, adding that Türkiye and Qatar are playing a constructive mediatory role in the dialogue.

Pakistan and the Afghan Taliban regime agreed to uphold ceasefire after multiple rounds of talks in Istanbul, read a joint statement issued on late Thursday, further stating: "Further modalities of the implementation will be discussed and decided in a principal level meeting in Istanbul on 6 November 2025."

Pakistan and Afghanistan resumed peace talks in Istanbul after Islamabad said the earlier four-day discussions had collapsed without a breakthrough. The talks had broken down when the Taliban refused to provide verifiable guarantees that groups such as the TTP would not use Afghan territory to launch attacks on Pakistan. Pakistan had recommenced talks at the request of mediators Turkey and Qatar to give peace another chance, while repeatedly urging Kabul to act against militants using its territory as a safe haven.

"Previously, Afghanistan refused to acknowledge responsibility for its nationals residing illegally in Pakistan, calling it Pakistan's issue," the minister told Geo News. "Now, the matter has gained international ownership."

He further noted that under the ongoing negotiations, a clause has been included stipulating that if any illegal activity originates from Afghan soil, Afghanistan will be held accountable.—RT/Agency

The delegation led by Robert Louis Strayer II, president of the US government-funded Critical Minerals Forum (CMF), "discussed avenues of cooperation in the minerals and mining sector, strengthening supply-chain security, and encouraging responsible and sustainable investment in Pakistan's critical minerals landscape" with a Pakistani team headed by Finance Minister Muhammad Aurangzeb, according to an official statement.

The meeting took place as the US and India announced a 10-year defence framework agreement. The CMF's focus is driven by the strategic threat posed by Beijing's control over key resources. "China's dominance of critical mineral supply chains has become a well-known threat to US national security, economic competitiveness, and long-term strategic objectives," Strayer wrote in his only article on the CMF website. Mr Strayer told Pakistan that the CMF is working globally to support reliable supply chains for US industry, particularly in emerging markets.

The forum, he said, "focused on rare and niche metals, including copper and antimony, and aims to de-risk investments from both financial and security perspectives." He also promised a commitment to support technology transfer, intellectual property protection, and US private-sector investor confidence.—RT/Agency

Deep sorrow and grief are expressed over the sad demise of former Chief Minister of Sindh & Defence Minister former Member National & Provincial Assembly

Aftab Shaban Mirani

The late Aftab Shaban Mirani was a distinguished political worker and a valuable asset of the Pakistan Peoples Party. His remarkable political and public services in the Sindh Assembly and across the province are highly commendable and will always be remembered.

May Almighty Allah grant the departed soul the highest place in Jannat-ul-Firdaus and bestow patience and strength upon the bereaved family. (Ameen)
