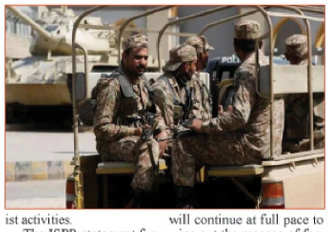
Four India-Linked Militants Eliminated In Balochistan Intelligence Operation: ISPR



RAWALPINDI: Security forces neutralised four terrorists belonging to Indian-proxy, Fitna al-Hindustan, during an intelligence-based operation (IBO) in Balochistan's Kalat district, the Inter-Services Public Relations (ISPR) said in a statement on Tuesday.

The military's media wing said that security forces on the night of November 1, 2025, conducted an IBO on the reported presence of militants belonging to Indian proxy Fitna al Hindustan.

"During the conduct of the operation, own troops effectively engaged the terrorists' location and, resultantly, four Indian-sponsored terrorists were sent to hell," the ISPR added.

It said that weapons and ammunition were also recovered from the killed terrorists, who remained actively involved in numerous terrorist activities.

The ISPR statement further said a sanitisation operation was commenced to eliminate any other Indian sponsored terrorists found in the area.

It added that the relentless counterterrorism campaign under vision "Azm-e-Istehkam" — as approved by the federal apex committee on the National Action Plan (Nap) by security forces and law enforcement agencies will continue at full pace to wipe out the menace of foreign-sponsored and supported terrorism from the country.

President Asif Ali Zardari paid tribute to the security forces for eliminating four terrorists in Kalat IBO.

In a statement, the president said the nation stands firmly with its forces in their resolve to root out terrorism under Operation Azm-e-Istehkam.—RT/Agency

27th Amendment Showdown: Dar Prepares To Table Bill After Intense Coalition Consultations

ISLAMABAD: Deputy Prime Minister Ishaq Dar said on Tuesday that the federal government would present the 27th Constitutional Amendment in accordance with the Constitution and only after consultation with coalition partners.

The ruling Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) formally approached its key ally — the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) — for its support in introducing the amendment, which would establish a Constitutional Court, and make certain changes to the National Finance Commission (NFC) Award.

This tweak also sought to amend Article 243 — which pertains to the supreme command of the armed forces — as well as several other key constitutional adjustments, according to PPP Chairman Bilawal Bhutto Zardari.

Other proposals included the introduction of executive magistrates, provisions for the transfer of judges, and the removal of protections related to provincial shares in the NFC Award.

Speaking on the floor of the Senate, Dar said that the government was in the process of introducing constitutional tweaks, confirming that the 27th amendment was "on its way".

"We will try to present it in accordance with the Constitution," he assured, adding that legislators would be able to debate and share their opinions before the matter was referred to the relevant committee.

The deputy prime minister emphasised that the amendment would not be rushed through Parliament. "It will not happen that the amendment is passed in haste — I give this assurance," he said.

Referring to the PPP, Dar said that the government was currently in discussion with its major coalition partner and would also take other allied parties — including the Muttahida Qaumi Movement-Pakistan (MQM-P), the Awami National Party (ANP), and the Balochistan Awami Party (BAP) — into confidence before finalising the draft.

"The final document will be presented before the House," he said.

Responding to recent remarks by Bilawal, Dar said it was his right to express his opinion.

"Bilawal Bhutto's observations were not made without basis — those points have been discussed," he added, noting that the government and PPP had reached an understanding and would now bring other allies on board.—RT/Agency

Trump Teases Saudi Entry Into Abraham Accords As MBS Heads To Washington in High-Stakes Visit

WASHINGTON: U.S. President Donald Trump has expressed optimism that Saudi Arabia will soon become part of the Abraham Accords, a landmark series of normalization agreements between Israel and several Arab states.

In an interview with an American television network, President Trump said, "Saudi Arabia will join the Abraham Accords — we'll work out a solution," suggesting that discussions with the Kingdom are progressing positively.

Commenting on the long-debated two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, Trump remarked that he was uncertain whether such a framework would ultimately be achieved. "I'm not sure it will be a two-state solution — it depends on Israel and me," he stated, indicating that Washington's approach under his administration remains flexible and largely guided by Israel's security and political considerations.

Meanwhile, the White House has confirmed that Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman (MBS) will visit Washington on November 18. Senior U.S. officials disclosed that the Crown Prince's meeting with President Trump will focus on bilateral ties, defense cooperation, and regional issues, including peace efforts in the Middle East. According to American media reports, the upcoming meeting comes amid Trump's growing pressure on Riyadh to formally join the Abraham Accords, a move that could significantly reshape regional alliances. Analysts believe that Saudi Arabia's potential inclusion would mark a major diplomatic victory for Washington and Israel, further isolating Iran and strengthening U.S.-Arab strategic cooperation.—RT/Agency

Earth on the Edge: Humanity's Last Warning Before the Point of No Return

The United Nations' latest Emissions Gap Report is not just another climate update — it's an obituary for human complacency. The world has officially failed to meet the 1.5°C target set under the 2015 Paris Agreement, and unless radical action is taken now, we are sealing our own extinction. According to the UN, global warming will breach this threshold within the next decade, triggering irreversible damage that no technology or treaty can undo.

What does this mean? It means heatwaves that kill, droughts that starve, and floods that wipe out entire communities. At just 2°C of warming — which is where we are headed — twice as many people will be exposed to extreme heat, and 99% of coral reefs will vanish, collapsing entire marine ecosystems. The planet is screaming, yet we continue to burn coal, oil, and gas like addicts refusing to admit the problem.

Pakistan, too, must listen. We are not spectators; we are victims and contributors. Our floods, melting glaciers, and smog-choked cities are not random tragedies — they are consequences of a global crisis we help perpetuate through inaction, weak enforcement, and misplaced priorities.

COP30 is being billed as humanity's last chance to course-correct. But summits mean nothing without real commitment — from governments, corporations, and each of us. Every ton of carbon we save, every tree we plant, every watt of renewable energy we use counts toward survival.

The Earth is not negotiating anymore. It's warning us — perhaps for the last time. If we fail to act today, tomorrow's headlines won't speak of overshoot or emissions — they'll speak of extinction.

Royston Drenthe Shocks Football World, Claims Messi Used Racist Slur on Field

Former Real Madrid midfielder Royston Drenthe has accused Lionel Messi of repeatedly using a racial slur against him during their on-field encounters, sparking debate about respect and cultural sensitivity in football.

In a recent interview, Drenthe, 38, claimed that Messi called him "Negro" in Spanish both before and after games, a term that, while common in South America, made him deeply uncomfortable.

"You know what really bothers me? The tone with which he always called me 'negro, negro,'" Drenthe said. "I understand that it is very common in South America, but we cannot just accept it."

Drenthe also recalled a specific incident while representing Hércules CF against Barcelona, where Messi greeted him with "Hola negro" before the match but refused to shake his hand after the final whistle.

"I had the same problem with Messi again. Before the match, he greeted me, 'Hola negro,' but after the match, he didn't shake my hand," Drenthe added.

Drenthe, who made 65 senior appearances for Real Madrid between 2007 and 2012, said the remarks were especially hurtful because they came from a peer and one of football's biggest stars.

He faced Messi three times—once with Real Madrid, once with Hércules, and once with the Netherlands national team—winning only with Hércules.—Agency

Amanda Anisimova Makes History, Defeats Every 2025 Grand Slam Champion

Amanda Anisimova made tennis history on Monday at the WTA Finals, becoming the only player in 2025 to defeat all four Grand Slam champions of the year.

The 23-year-old American achieved the milestone after rallying from a set and a break down to beat Madison Keys 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, keeping her semifinal hopes alive.

After the match, Anisimova expressed relief and pride in her on-court interview, admitting the match was tough and praising Keys for her performance.

"I feel like every time I come out here, my opponent's playing some incredible tennis; it's been a tough few matches, and today Maddie was playing so well. It was quite a battle out there," Anisimova said.

"I'm really happy with how I was able to turn it around in the second set and kind of turn that frown upside down," she added.

The victory not only leveled Anisimova's round-robin record at 1-1 but also secured a unique place in the 2025 season record book.

She has now defeated all four Grand Slam champions this year: Aryna Sabalenka (Australian Open), Iga Swiatek (Roland Garros), Coco Gauff (Wimbledon), and Madison Keys (US Open).

With all four champions now on her list of conquests, Anisimova stands alone with this rare achievement. It is unlikely anyone else will match her feat, as the WTA Finals mark the final event of the season.Elena Rybakina could still achieve the sweep, having already beaten Sabalenka, Swiatek, and Keys in 2025, but she would need to face and defeat Gauff in the semifinals or final.

Jessica Pegula also came close but fell short, missing a win over Keys, and with Keys now eliminated, she no longer has the chance to complete the set.With this victory, Anisimova will now face Iga Swiatek on Wednesday. Both players sit at 1-1 in their group, each having lost to Rybakina, and will battle for a spot in the semifinals alongside the Kazakh star.—Agency

Naqvi Hails Triumphant Return of International Cricket to Faisalabad After 17 Years

FAISALABAD: Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) Chairman Mohsin Naqvi has lauded the return of international cricket to Faisalabad as Pakistan face South Africa in the opening match of the three-match ODI series at the Iqbal Cricket Stadium.

Taking to social media platform 'X', Naqvi expressed his joy over the city's long-awaited return to the international cricket circuit.

"After 17 long years, international cricket finally returns to Faisalabad," Naqvi stated.

"Delighted to see the excitement as Pakistan and South Africa begin the ODI series here in Pakistan's own 'Manchester'," he added.

"The passion of Faisalabad's people for cricket is truly unmatched. Insha'Allah, Faisalabad will continue to host international matches in the future," he concluded.

The ongoing series marks a historic milestone, as Faisalabad last hosted an ODI on April 11, 2008, when Pakistan defeated Bangladesh by seven wickets at the same venue.All three matches of the series are being played at the Iqbal Cricket Stadium, with the remaining ODIs scheduled for November 6 and 8.The contest follows Pakistan's 1-1 draw in the two-match Test series and a 2-1 victory in the T20I series against the Proteas, highlighted by a match-winning innings from skipper Babar Azam in Lahore on Saturday.Historically, Pakistan and South Africa have met 87 times in ODIs — Pakistan have won 34 matches, South Africa 52, while one ended without a result.In Faisalabad, the two teams have clashed three times before — Pakistan emerged victorious in 1994 and 2007, while South Africa won in 2003.When this news was filed, South Africa, batting first, were 23-0 after five overs, with Lhuan-dre Pretorius on 16 and Quinton de Kock on 7 at the crease.—Agency

Ben Stokes Secures Fresh Two-Year Deal as ECB Unveils New Central Contracts

Test captain and all-rounder Ben Stokes has signed a fresh two-year central contract with England, providing a strong indication that he plans to feature in the 2027 Ashes series on home soil.

The 34-year-old all-rounder has significantly reduced his playing schedule due to injury, representing only England's Test team over the past 12 months.

Stokes has struggled with hamstring and shoulder issues this year and has not appeared in a limited-overs international since November 2023.

However, his new deal suggests he has no immediate plans to step away from international cricket.

England head coach Brendon McCullum, whose contract runs until the end of 2027, could continue alongside Stokes under the successful coach-captain partnership.

Since taking charge in June 2022, England have won 25 and lost 14 Tests, though they are yet to secure a series victory against a "Big Three" nation ahead of the upcoming Ashes tour to Australia.

Stokes is among 14 players to have signed two-year central contracts, while a further 12 players remain contracted until October 2026, and four more have signed development deals.

The ECB announced the updated contract list on Tuesday, with Director of Men's Cricket Rob Key praising it as a reflection of "the depth and strength of talent" in English cricket.

Five players have earned their first central contracts: Sonny Baker, Liam Dawson, Saqib Mahmood, Jamie Overton, and Luke Wood.

Meanwhile, six players were not offered new deals after their contracts expired: Jonny Bairstow, Jack Leach, Liam Livingstone, Olly Stone, Reece Topley, and Chris Woakes, who has retired from international cricket.

Key highlighted that multi-year contracts, introduced two years ago, are designed to help manage the workloads of all-format players and ensure that England remains a priority for players in demand on the franchise circuit.

Notable contract extensions include Adil Rashid, who is expected to continue through at least the 2027 50-over World Cup, and Sam Curran, who returns to favour with a two-year deal after spending part of 2025 outside England's white-ball squads.

Jos Buttler has also committed to a two-year contract despite stepping down as white-ball captain earlier this year.

Several England Test players have only signed one-year deals, leaving open the possibility of a post-series overhaul if the Ashes results are unfavorable.—Agency

Arne Slot Promises Heartfelt Anfield Reception for Alexander-Arnold's Comeback

LIVERPOOL: Liverpool manager Arne Slot has promised a warm reception for former vice-captain Trent Alexander-Arnold when he returns to Anfield with Real Madrid for Tuesday's Champions League clash.

Speaking in his pre-match press conference, Slot described the England international as both "an exceptional player and a remarkable human being."

"I have great memories of the player and of the human being, so he will get a warm welcome from me," Slot said.

Alexander-Arnold's controversial summer move to Real Madrid, after more than a decade at his boyhood club, left many Liverpool fans divided.

Slot acknowledged the uncertainty surrounding the supporters' response but stressed that the club would treat their former star with respect.

"He will get a warm welcome from me. Let's first wait and see if he is on the pitch tomorrow; how the fans react, I have no clue," he added.

The match marks an emotional homecoming for the 27-year-old defender, whose transfer symbolised the end of an era at Anfield and the beginning of a new chapter in Spain.

Despite the emotional undertones, Slot made it clear that his focus remains on Liverpool's performance.

Meanwhile, Real Madrid coach Xabi Alonso also spoke fondly of Alexander-Arnold, encouraging him to enjoy his return.

"His story is different from mine, so he needs to enjoy that moment because it is nice to be back," Alonso said.—Agency

Xhaka's Deflected Goal Saves Sunderland in Tense 1–1 Clash with Everton

SUNDERLAND: Everton midfielder Iliman Ndiaye lit up the Stadium of Light with a stunning solo goal, but Granit Xhaka's deflected strike earned Sunderland a hard-fought 1-1 draw in an entertaining Premier League clash on Monday.

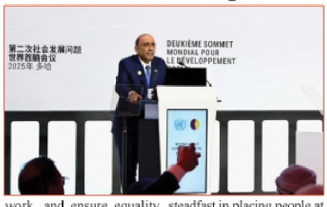
President Zardari Calls For Radical Global Financial Reforms And Debt Relief To Empower Developing Nations



ISLAMABAD: President Asif Ali Zardari on Tuesday called for comprehensive global financial reforms, including debt relief and equitable taxation, to enable developing countries to pursue social justice and sustainable development.

Addressing the Second World Summit for Social Development, he said existing international financial structures place disproportionate burdens on poorer nations, limiting their ability to invest in people-centric progress.

He reaffirmed Pakistan's commitment to social justice, inclusive development, and global solidarity, emphasising the need to eradicate poverty, promote decent work, and ensure equality and human rights for all.

The president expressed full support for the Doha Political Declaration, highlighting that the country's vision for inclusiveness and sustainable development aligns with the spirit of the Doha Declaration. "Pakistan remains steadfast in placing people at the centre of policy", he added.

Showcasing Pakistan's progress, he cited the Benazir Income Support Programme (BISP), which has empowered over nine million families through income assistance, healthcare, and education. The initiative, he said, "is recognised globally as one of the best social protection models."

He reaffirmed Pakistan's commitment to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), pledging to raise literacy to 90% and ensure every child attends school within five years.

The president also mentioned initiatives such as the National Youth Internship Programme and green and resilient housing projects, which aim to empower youth and strengthen climate resilience through nature-based solutions like mangrove restoration.

President Zardari also expressed grave concern over the "weaponisation of water" and violations of the Indus Waters Treaty, calling them a "serious threat" to the livelihoods of 240 million Pakistanis.He also condemned the genocide, apartheid, and mass starvation in Palestine, calling for a just and lasting peace. He reiterated Pakistan's unwavering support for the people of Kashmir, linking both struggles as two sides of the same coin in the pursuit of justice and self-determination."Development must begin and end with the betterment of people," Zardari said, adding: "We must rise above all differences to embark on a path of compassion and progress for all."—RT/Agency

Pakistan Scraps Eni LNG Cargoes, Seeks Fresh Terms With Qatar In Energy Reboot

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan has struck a deal to cancel 21 liquefied natural gas (LNG) cargoes under its long-term contract with Italy's Eni as part of a plan to curb excess imports that have flooded its gas network, according to an official document and two sources.

The document from state-owned Pakistan LNG Ltd (PLL) to the country's Ministry of Energy, dated October 22, said 11 cargoes planned for 2026 and 10 for 2027 would be cancelled at the request of gas distributor SNGPL.

Only the planned January shipment in both years, and the December shipment in 2027, would be retained to meet peak winter demand, according to the document, reviewed by Reuters.

Two sources familiar with the matter in Pakistan said that Eni had agreed to the move under the contract's flexibility provisions. LNG is in strong demand globally, and suppliers typically stand to earn more by selling cargoes in the spot market than under long-term contracts.

Eni declined to comment. PLL, SNGPL, and Pakistan's petroleum ministry did not reply to requests for comment.

Talks to renegotiate supplies from Qatar PLL's move marks one of Pakistan's most significant steps yet to rein in LNG purchases as rising renewable generation and lower industrial demand leave it with surplus imported gas.

Eni signed a long-term LNG supply deal with PLL in 2017, committing to deliver one cargo per month until 2032, with the option to divert shipments to other destinations.—RT/Agency

Raza Rabbani Slams Proposed 27th Amendment As 'Assault On Provincial Autonomy'

ISLAMABAD: Former Senate chairman Raza Rabbani on Tuesday warned that the 27th Constitutional Amendment, proposed by the federal government, would be tantamount to rolling back the provincial autonomy achieved under the 18th Amendment.

"In the brittle internal political situation, playing with provincial autonomy will cast deep shadows over the Federation," Rabbani, a senior leader of the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP), said in a statement.

The ruling Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) formally approached its key ally — PPP — for their support in introducing the amendment, which would establish a Constitutional Court, and make certain changes to the National Finance Commission (NFC) Award.

This tweak also sought to amend Article 243 — which pertains to the supreme command of the armed forces — as well as several other key constitutional adjustments, according to PPP Chairman Bilawal Bhutto Zardari.

Other proposals included the introduction of executive magistrates, provisions for the transfer of judges, and the removal of protections related to provincial shares in the NFC Award.—RT/Agency

Trump Rattles U.S. Politics Again — Backs Cuomo, Warns Of Funding Cut To NYC If Mamdani Wins

US President Donald Trump endorsed former New York Governor Andrew Cuomo for mayor of New York City on Monday and threatened to hold back federal funds to the city if Democratic candidate Zohran Mamdani wins the mayoral election on Tuesday.

Trump, a Republican who has offered frequent commentary on the New York mayoral election, injected himself further into the race by crossing party lines to support Cuomo over Mamdani and the Republican candidate, Curtis Sliwa, who trails badly in public opinion polls in the heavily Democratic city.

Cuomo, a longtime stalwart in the Democratic Party, is running as an independent after losing to Mamdani in the Democratic primary.

Tuesday's New York City election has been closely watched nationally as one that could help shape the image of the Democratic Party as it seeks its identity in opposition to Trump.

Mamdani, 34, a self-described democratic socialist who is leading Cuomo in the polls, has energised younger and more progressive voters, but he has also alarmed more moderate Democrats who fear a shift too far to the left may backfire.Republicans have attacked Mamdani's candidacy throughout the campaign, with Trump casting him as a communist.—RT/Agency

TLP Rift Explodes: Punjab, Lahore Leadership Breaks Away From Banned Party

ISLAMABAD: Ticket holders and office bearers of the Tehreek-i-Labbaik Pakistan (TLP) from central Punjab and Lahore on Tuesday announced that they were severing ties with the now-banned organisation, stating that they were "standing with the state".

On Friday, all election ticket holders of the TLP from south Punjab announced that they had left the party, accusing it of pursuing an anti-state agenda that "aligns with the country's enemies".

In a press conference at the Lahore Press Club today, multiple TLP ticket holders and office bearers announced their decision to step away from the religiopolitical group, with lawyer Usman Khizr Mangat saying that one can engage in politics within the state, but not against it.

"Violence and mobs cannot create an impact by attacking the state," he said. "Pakistan saw how these people carried out attacks. The government tried to start a dialogue, but the demands laid out were not accepted.

"The state is like a mother, it tried to negotiate for six, seven days constantly with these people (the TLP) and outlined Pakistan's situation and its standing in the international community."

Mangat noted that the unrest took place at a time when the country is "on red alert because of India in the east and Afghanistan in the northwest".

"You saw that buses were stolen, people were armed and school buses carrying girls were hijacked. What kind of politics is this?" he questioned."Other parties protest under the Constitution and the law; they have the right to freedom of movement and freedom of speech, but you cannot exercise those rights at the cost of causing unrest within the state."—RT/Agency
