Report claims Bushra Bibi steered Imran Khan on governance and key decisions Like Rasputin!

ISLAMABAD: Imran Khan's marriage to his spiritual adviser shocked the country. Now she could help decide whether he returns to office or stays in prison. The Economist reported Former prime minister Khan, according to the UK publication report, was introduced to Bushra Bibi by her older sister, Maryam. At some point in her conversations with Khan, who was prone to fretting about religion and the meaning of life, Maryam suggested he talk to her sister. Bushra Bibi was reluctant to talk to Khan at first, saying she did not meet men outside of the family, but eventually agreed to a telephone consultation. And that was when it began. The calls went on for hours through the night.

Eventually, the calls became visits. Bushra Bibi's husband, Khawar Manika, was pleased at first. He liked having such a famous person at home. But as his wife's intimacy with Khan grew, he became concerned. "She wanted to sit alone and talk to him. I would say, as a husband, 'Why can't we sit together?'" he said. The report reads that sometimes Manika would walk in on them but, "every time I stepped in, there was a hush". According to Manika, his wife explained to Khan that she had seen the future: if the two of them were married, his election as prime minister would follow (Bushra Bibi has denied this story). At the end of 2017, she divorced her husband, and

Pakistan and Jordan move to elevate strategic and economic partnership

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan and Jordan on Saturday reaffirmed their commitment to bolster bilateral strategic and economic ties, with a focus on expanding mutual cooperation at regional and international forums. The development came during a meeting between Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif and Jordan's King Abdullah II ibn Al Hussein, who arrived in the country earlier today on a two-day visit, state-run. The two leaders emphasised the need to deepen bilateral relations and explore opportunities to enhance cooperation across several sectors, including trade, investment, health, education, and defence. Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Ishaq Dar, Chief of Army

Staff Field Marshal Syed Asim Munir, and Information Minister Attaullah Tarar were among the attendees of the meeting. PM Shehbaz welcomed King Abdullah II's visit to Pakistan, terming it as a "testament to the enduring friendship between Pakistan and Jordan". Jordan's king appreciated Pakistan's continued support for Jordan's role in the humanitarian efforts in Gaza. Both leaders reaffirmed the two nations' principled stance on Gaza, including their opposition to any relocation of Palestinians from the territory. They also vowed to strengthen coordination among the eight Arab-Islamic countries working with the United States on a ceasefire in Gaza. PM Shehbaz briefed

King Abdullah II on recent developments in the region, particularly in Afghanistan and India. King Abdullah II recognised Islamabad's role in maintaining peace and stability in the region. The two leaders also attended a ceremony for exchanging memorandums of understanding (MoUs) to enhance cooperation in media, culture, and education. PM Shehbaz then hosted King Abdullah II and his delegation for a dinner. Before his meeting with PM Shehbaz, the Jordanian leader was presented with a guard of honour at the PM House after his arrival in the country. President Asif Ali Zardari and the premier were joined by First Lady Aseefa Bhutto-Zardari, PPP Chairman Bilawal

Bhutto-Zardari, and other officials in the welcoming ceremony for Jordan's king at PAF Base Nur Khan in Rawalpindi. President Zardari expressed hope that King Abdullah II's visit would "give bilateral relations a new strategic dimension". The ties between the two countries are based on historical brotherhood, mutual trust, and shared values, he added. A special investiture ceremony is also scheduled at the Aiwan-e-Sadr (President House) to confer the highest civilian award upon King Abdullah II. King Abdullah II's visit to Pakistan comes a month after Chief of Army Staff (COAS) Field Marshal Syed Asim Munir visited the country.—RT/Agency

Russia steps in, offers to broker peace between Pakistan and Afghanistan

MOSCOW: Russia has extended an offer to mediate in the ongoing tensions between Pakistan and Afghanistan. Russia's Foreign Ministry spokesperson, Maria Zakharova, emphasised that stability in the region is a top priority. She warned that escalating border tensions pose a threat not only to the two nations but also to the wider international community. Zakharova urged both Pakistan and Afghanistan to exercise restraint, stressing that negotiations remain the only sustainable solution. She noted that both countries are important partners and highlighted Moscow's readiness to facilitate dialogue. Pakistan and Afghanistan have previously engaged in multiple rounds of talks under the mediation of Qatar and Turkey. The Doha negotiations led to a temporary ceasefire, but subsequent meetings in Istanbul failed to achieve significant progress. In addition to Russia, other regional powers have expressed concern. Turkey's President announced that a high-level delegation would be sent to Pakistan to help de-escalate tensions. Similarly, Iran's Foreign Minister offered mediation after discussing the issue with his Pakistani counterpart. The latest offer from Russia adds another dimension to the ongoing diplomatic efforts aimed at reducing tensions between the two neighbours.—RT/Agency

ISLAMABAD: President Asif Ali Zardari on Saturday signed the Pakistan Army, Air Force and Navy Amendment Bills 2025 into law following their approval by parliament. According to notifications shared by the PPP on the social media platform X, the president gave his assent to the Pakistan Army (Amendment) Bill 2025, the Pakistan Air Force (Amendment) Bill 2025 and the Pakistan Navy (Amendment) Bill 2025. The bills, presented by deputy Prime Minister Ishaq Dar and Defence Minister Khawaja Asif, were passed by both the lower and upper houses of parliament — the National Assembly and the Senate — this week. What are the key changes? Under the Pakistan Army (Amendment) Bill, the COAS will concurrently serve as Chief of the Defence Forces for five years. Field Marshal Munir's tenure will restart from the date the new notification is issued. Article 243 provisions applicable to a Field Marshal will also apply to a General promoted to the rank. The federal government may authorise the Vice Chief of Army Staff or Deputy Chief of Army Staff to exercise powers of the COAS, under written orders issued on the CDF's recommendation. The legislation further clarifies that once the first notification for the dual office is issued, the incumbent COAS' tenure will be deemed to have recommenced from the date of that notification. The federal government will determine the duties and responsibilities of the CDF, including multi-domain integration, restructuring and ensuring jointness across the armed forces.—RT/Agency

Cyber firm flags seven relentless cyber threats stalking Pakistan

ISLAMABAD: A global cybersecurity firm has identified seven advanced persistent threat (APT) groups targeting Pakistan's government, intelligence agencies, oil and gas industry, and corporate sector in a bid to steal sensitive information. The News reported on Saturday it said there are around one million such attacks every month, meaning Pakistan faces cyberattacks on a per-minute basis. The attempts seek to extract vital data from devices such as computers, laptops and mobile phones, and in some cases via insecure Wi-Fi networks. According to the data, more than 5.3 million on-device attacks were detected in Pakistan in the first nine months

(January to September) of the current calendar year, compared to 2.5 million web threats over the same period. The data is stolen and then placed on the Dark Web for various reasons. The banking and financial sector, including insurance companies, also faced such attacks, but they were reluctant to share details. During a media briefing session here on Friday, Dmitry Berezin, Kaspersky's Global Security Expert, focused on pressing cyberthreats facing the country, including exploits, ransomware, and advanced targeted attacks. "Understanding the growing and increasingly sophisticated cyberthreat landscape is crucial for organisations, while individuals should also stay aware and follow fundamental cyber hygiene principles," Kaspersky advised.—RT/Agency

UK magazine alleges Bushra Bibi's deep sway over key state decisions, Tarar weighs in

LAHORE: Federal Minister for Information Attaullah Tarar has said that a British magazine has published a story alleging that the wife of the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder, Bushra Bibi, played a decisive role in state matters and influenced major government decisions. Speaking to the media in Lahore on Friday, Tarar claimed that the PTI founder would consult Bushra Bibi—not experts—before taking important decisions. He said that international publications are now reporting that "all decisions were being made by one woman," adding that Bushra Bibi, under the guise of spirituality, was directing both political and economic affairs of the country. Tarar argued that these revelations further expose what he described as "hypocrisy, falsehood, and deceit" at the heart of the PTI founder's politics.—RT/Agency

Pakistan envoy urges bold, economically driven reset in ties with Washington

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan's Ambassador to the United States Rizwan Saeed Sheikh met US Congressman John Larson in Hartford to discuss strengthening the long-standing and consequential bilateral partnership between Islamabad and Washington. Highlighting the significance of Pak-US relations, Sheikh emphasised that the relationship had consistently proven vital not only for both nations but for the wider free world. Trump says will sue BBC for up to US$5 billion over video edit

WASHINGTON: US President Donald Trump said he would sue the BBC for up to US$5 billion after the British broadcaster apologised for a misleading edit of one of his speeches but said it would not pay damages. "We'll sue them for anywhere between a billion and five billion dollars, probably some time next week. I think I have to do it. They've even admitted that they cheated," Trump told reporters aboard Air Force One. Trump's lawyers sent the BBC a letter on Monday accusing it of defaming the president with the video of the speech before the 2021 US Capitol riot and giving it until Friday to apologise and pay compensation. "The people of the UK are very angry about what happened, as you can imagine, because it shows the BBC is fake news," Trump said. He added that he planned to raise the BBC issue with British Prime Minister Keir Starmer, who has backed the broadcaster's independence while avoiding taking sides against Trump. "I'm going to call him over the weekend. He actually put a call into me. He's very embarrassed," Trump said. On Monday, the BBC apologised for giving the impression in a documentary aired last year that Trump had directly urged "violent action" just before the assault on the US Capitol by his supporters on Jan 6, 2021.

The firestorm over the video edit has led the BBC director-general and the organisation's top news executive to resign. The BBC said Thursday that its chairman Samir Shah had sent a "personal letter" to the White House making clear to President Trump that he and the corporation are sorry for the edit of the president's speech. However, it added: "While the BBC sincerely regrets the manner in which the video clip was edited, we strongly disagree there is a basis for a defamation claim."—RT/Agency

Mysticism, Power and a Nuclear State: Pakistan Cannot Afford a Rasputin Problem

The revelations published by The Economist's 1843 Magazine — penned by respected journalist Owen Bennett-Jones — should jolt Pakistan into a moment of national introspection. This is not a routine political hit job, nor the usual partisan mudslinging. It is a serious assessment from one of the world's most credible publications, warning of something profoundly alarming: the possibility that a modern nuclear state of 250 million people may have been influenced not by institutions, advisors, or democratic processes, but by mysticism channelled through the former first lady, Bushra Bibi.

The article's claims are chilling. Decisions of state allegedly filtered through spiritual rituals, intelligence inputs relayed as "divine intuition," and senior aides frustrated by what they perceived as governance dictated by esoteric practices rather than competence. Whether every detail is fully accurate or partly coloured by disgruntled former staff, the seriousness of the allegations cannot be ignored. The Economist is not a tabloid, and Owen Bennett-Jones is not a lightweight. To dismiss this as mere propaganda is to avoid confronting a deeper systemic rot.

Pakistan — a country with nuclear weapons, a fragile trillion Dollar economy that has huge potential, and immense global scrutiny — cannot be run on the whims of any unelected figure, mystical or otherwise. History is filled with cautionary tales of Rasputin-like influences compromising leaders, destabilizing courts, and weakening nations. No spouse, advisor, spiritual guide, or confidant — whether associated with Imran Khan or any other leader — can be allowed such unaccountable sway.

And while Imran Khan once commanded a near-cult following that spanned continents, that sheen is undeniably fading and fading fast. Increasing numbers of Pakistanis — both at home and abroad — are beginning to see through the facade as the idiosyncrasies, misjudgments, and governance follies continue to surface. Articles such as this one, published in reputable international outlets, are accelerating that shift in perception. It is a moment of reckoning not just for Khan, but for a nation long held hostage by personality politics over institutional sanity.

Rehan Ahmed Sidelined, Blow to England Lions Tour Plans

Rehan Ahmed has been ruled out of any further participation on the England Lions tour of Australia after suffering a right lower leg strain during the Ashes warm-up match against England in Perth.

Legspinner Rehan batted at No. 5 for the Lions, making 16 off 41 balls on day one before becoming one of six wickets for England captain, Ben Stokes. He played no part with the ball, or in the Lions' second innings, with the ECB announcing afterwards that he would return home to begin his recovery.

Rehan had signed up to play for Hobart Hurricanes in the 2025-26 BBL, but the BBC reported that the injury was not expected to impact his involvement in the competition, which starts in a month's time.

England Lions are scheduled to play another four-day match at Lilac Hill, against a Cricket Australia XI, next week, before a one-off unofficial Test against Australia A in December. The Lions are also expected to be involved in a pink-ball tour game between England and the Prime Minister's XI in Canberra between the first and second Ashes Tests. It had been speculated that Rehan, who missed out on selection as the second spinner in the main Ashes squad to Will Jacks, could stay on with England after the Lions programme concluded.—Agency

Lee and Wyatt-Hodge Power Hurricanes to Dominance as Heat Slide Further

Hobart Hurricanes 114 for 1 (Lee 59*, Wyatt-Hodge 44, Jonassen 1-12) beat Brisbane Heat 108 for 9 (Harris 28, Carey 2-10, Strano 2-17, Graham 2-25) by 16 runs (DLS method).

Lizelle Lee kept Hobart Hurricanes rolling, and Brisbane Heat winless thanks to a power-packed knock in their rain-impacted 16-run WBBL win in Sydney on Saturday.

Lee hit an unbeaten 59 off 45 balls, striking six fours and three sixes either side of a rain delay on Saturday. Hurricanes were flying before their innings was reduced to 12 overs and they purred to 114 for 1, with Heat's target increased to 125 based on the Duckworth-Lewis-Stern system.

Jess Jonassen (1 for 12, 10, Strano 2-17, Graham 2-25) by 16 runs (DLS method).

Danni Wyatt-Hodge (44 in 26 balls) combined with Lee in a 106-run opening stand, which only ended in the final over.

Grace Harris (28 in 21) hung in as Heat lost regular wickets attempting to maintain the scoring rate and finished at 108 for 9 thanks to a last-ball six from Sianna Genger.—Agency

KKR Shake-Up as Venkatesh Iyer Leads Star-Studded List of Released Players

Venkatesh Iyer, who made a name for himself and was elevated to the national team following a strong IPL debut season in 2021 for Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR), is among the players being released by the three-time champions.

ESPNcricinfo has learned that Iyer, who was bought for a record INR 23.75 crore at the IPL 2025 mega auction by KKR, who used a right-to-match card to get him, is part of a lengthy list of high-profile names who are not being retained by the franchise.

The other high-profile players being let go are the South African duo of Anrich Nortje (bought for INR 6.5 crore) and Quinton de Kock (INR 3.6 crore), Australian quick Spencer Johnson (INR 2.8 crore), Afghanistan wicketkeeper-batter Rahmanullah Gurbaz (INR 2 crore) and England allrounder Moeen Ali (INR 2 crore).

The uncapped Indian pair of Luvnith Sisodia and Chetan Sakariya, who had replaced the injured Umran Malik last season, are also being released.

After making a big impression in his debut IPL season - which came after he had starred for Madhya Pradesh in the domestic limited-overs tournaments in 2020-21 - Iyer had a quiet IPL 2022, but was again a star for KKR in IPL 2023, when he scored 404 runs, including a century, to average 28.86 at a strike rate of 145.85 for the season.

A key part of the team, he has even led the side on occasion and, last year, was talked about as a possible captain before Ajinkya Rahane was handed the reins. As it happened, Iyer scored just 142 runs in 11 games at a strike rate of 139.22.

KKR, who won the IPL in 2024, finished near the bottom of the table the following season. Among the players to perform poorly was de Kock (152 runs in eight innings at a strike rate of 129.91), while the likes of Nortje, Johnson, Gurbaz and Moeen didn't get too many opportunities for one reason or another and weren't too impressive when fielded.—Agency

ICC Unveils Women's Emerging Nations Trophy in Major Global Expansion

A new global tournament, the ICC Women's Emerging Nations Trophy, involving eight teams from four continents, will be played from November 20 to 30 in Bangkok, Thailand, Papua New Guinea, Netherlands, UAE, Scotland, Namibia, Tanzania and Uganda will take part in the inaugural edition.

The trigger for the tournament, an ICC statement said, was the success of the recent ODI World Cup in India and Sri Lanka, where "more than 500 million viewers in India" were recorded and there was also "significant growth in viewership across countries".

"Nearly 300,000 fans attended matches across India and Sri Lanka and the event concluded with India becoming the first Asian team to lift the Women's Cricket World Cup, a watershed moment in the evolution of the sport and the socio-cultural context of gender roles," an ICC statement said. "Building on the extraordinary impetus provided by the marquee event, the ICC continues to invest in creating a sustainable future for women's cricket. The Women's Emerging Nations Trophy is part of a new three-tier development pathway designed to offer high-performance exposure to emerging nations."

Sanjay Gupta, the ICC chief executive, said, "It is the ICC and the Chair's [Jay Shah] vision to sustainably expand cricket's footprint across the world and grow the women's game. Providing elite athletes from emerging nations more opportunities to play at the highest level is aimed at fast-tracking their development and improving the competitiveness of their teams.—Agency

Faf du Plessis and Fraser-McGurk Headline Delhi Capitals' Surprising Release List

Delhi Capitals (DC) are set to release their overseas players after they signed him to a new contract in 2024. His intent-laden batting that yielded 222 runs off just 81 deliveries were the highlight for DC during the season.

He was subsequently bought back via the right-to-match card ahead of IPL 2025, where he returned five single-digit scores in six matches. His overall tally of 55 runs included a best of 38 before he was benched.

Having returned home when the IPL season was paused owing to cross-border tensions with Pakistan, Fraser-McGurk opted to stay back when the season resumed, with the franchise signing Bangladesh left-arm seamer Mustafizur Rahman as a temporary replacement. At the time, the IPL had stated temporary replacements would not be retained, which means Mustafizur, too, will probably not go to the auction.—Agency

Mohit too was below par, picking two wickets in eight games while going at 10.28. Fraser-McGurk, however, will be the most high-profile release, considering that the franchise had labelled

Pope Sparkles While Root and Brook Hit Form in Commanding England Victory

England 426 (Pope 100, Duckett 92, Crawley 82, Stokes 77, Bethell 3-14) and 202 for 5 (Pope 90, Smith 39*, Root 31) beat England Lions 376 (Jacks 83, McKinney 67, Row 55, Cox 53, Potts 53, Stokes 6-52) and 251 for 6 dec (Bethell 70) by five wickets

Joe Root and Harry Brook had final hits in the middle before the first Ashes Test, but weren't able to kick on from encouraging starts in England's five-wicket victory over the Lions on a slow surface at Lilac Hill.

Chasing 202 runs in batting-friendly conditions, England stuttered at 14 for 2 after the wickets of opener Ben Duckett and Zak Crawley. The pair had combined for a swashbuckling 182-run stand in the first innings, but Duckett fell for a golden duck after fending a short delivery from seamer Nathan Gilchrist to point.

It was a rare occasion that the ball reared off the sedate surface and the type of fierce delivery that Duckett can expect on the bouncer surface of Optus Stadium, while Crawley edged Matt Potts to slip after a loose drive.

Potts followed up from his impressive effort earlier in the match with 1 for 9 off his four-over burst with the new ball.

Ollie Pope's stylish century in the first innings put to on rotating the strike with sharp running between the wickets, quietly moving to 31 off 52 balls before being bowled by offspinner Will Jacks after playing down the wrong line.

Brook came to the crease after an ugly first-innings dismissal when he was bowled after charging down the pitch. He motored to 19 before his stumps were rattled after botching a reverse paddle against Jacks.

Jamie Smith ensured the game wrapped up quickly, clubbing an unbeaten 39 off 22 while Ben Stokes finished 15 not out as England hauled in the target in just 34.4 overs.

There had been an unknown over whether the final day would meander into an early finish or whether a chase late in the day would be conjured.—Agency

India Close In on Triumph After Chaotic 15-Wicket Day at Eden Gardens

South Africa 159 and 93 for 7 (Bavuma 29*, Jadeja 4-29) lead India 189 (Rahul 39, Harmer 4-30, Jansen 3-35) by 63 runs

India started the second day 122 runs behind in the first innings with nine wickets in hand. Less than six dramatic hours of cricket later, they were sensing a win, having reduced South Africa to effectively 63 for 7 in their second innings. Fifteen wickets fell on the day, Shubman Gill retired with a neck spasm, 39 remained the top score in the Test, and 57 the top partnership. This was the lowest top score in the first two innings of a Test in India, and the lowest in any Test since Durban 2010-11 between the same sides.

Absolutely nobody predicted the pitch would turn out to be so difficult to bat on. It looked like a normal Indian track, good for batting for first two days, but the top surface began to come off in the second half of the first day. On the second day, it became near unplayable. Even the fast bowlers drew generous help to take 11 of the 26 wickets to fall.

The pitch might seem at odds with India's public utterances after the series loss to New Zealand last year that they want to play on more balanced surfaces, but commentator Dinesh Karthik said on air that it was not watered on the day before the Test, which comes across as unusual. What wasn't unusual was that the best player on this moving day was Ravindra Jadeja, who scored 27 largely trouble-free runs before his old-fashioned technique of hiding the bat behind the pad got him out lbw to Simon Harmer.

Harmer himself showed all the hype was real, that he is now a vastly improved bowler to the one that showed up in India 10 years ago, taking 4 for 30 to keep South Africa in arrears of only 30 after being bowled out for 159 on the first day. Jadeja, though, showed 30 was plenty with an unerring unbroken spell of 13-3-29-4 as South Africa ended the day on 93 for 7.—Agency

The actress shares this in an interview with V magazine. "The experience only adds to the dread, because I've had so many experiences of working so hard on something, loving something so deeply, and then releasing it to the world, and the world just being like, 'Boo! Hate you!' It is so awful."

She continues, "And [yet] somehow, I read a script, I meet with the director, we get on set, we start doing it, and somehow I'm able to forget that this part of the process will happen. I mean, I'm very blessed and very lucky. But it's a very scary few months."

She told Rolling Stone magazine: "[Singing] is my gift and the thing I cherish the most. I should be feeling that way about every song."

Congo, M23 sign framework for peace in Qatar, more steps needed

DOHA: The Democratic Republic of Congo and the M23 rebel group signed on Saturday a framework agreement for a peace deal aimed at ending fighting in eastern Congo that has killed thousands of people and displaced hundreds of thousands more this year.

The agreement was signed by representatives from both sides at a ceremony in the Qatari capital Doha.

It was the latest of several documents that have been signed in recent months as part of efforts, backed by the United States and Qatar, to end the decades-long conflict in

November 15, 2025
Doha / State of Qatar

Congo that has often threatened to escalate into a full-blown regional war.

The framework was described by US and Qatari officials as an important step to peace but one of many that lie ahead.

The top US envoy to the region, Massad Boulos told Reuters the framework covered eight protocols, and that work still needed to be done to agree on how to implement six of them.

Boulos also acknowledged that implementing the first two protocols concerning the exchange of prisoners and the monitoring of a ceasefire, agreed in recent months, had been slow.

"Yes, they were a little bit slow in the first few weeks," he told reporters after the signing. "Yes, people were expecting to see probably some immediate results on the ground, but this is a process... This is not a light switch that you just switch on and off."

M23, in the latest of a string of actions supported by neighbouring Rwanda, seized Goma, eastern Congo's largest city, in January and went on to make gains across North Kivu and South Kivu provinces.

Rwanda has long denied allegations that it has helped M23, which has seized more territory in Congo than it has ever previously held.

In Congo, the violence has continued through the various diplomatic processes in Washington and Doha. On Friday, local officials reported that as many as 28 people killed by Islamic State-allied militants in eastern North Kivu province.

Qatar has hosted multiple rounds of direct talks between the Congo government and the rebels going back to April, but they have dealt largely with preconditions and confidence-building measures. —RT/Agency

Moonis Elahi gains major reprieve as Interpol closes two-year probe

LONDON/LYON: The General Secretariat of the International Criminal Police Organisation (Interpol) has dropped its probes into PTI leader Moonis Elahi after investigating him for nearly two years on the complaints filed by Pakistani authorities — including a Gujarat murder case registered against him in June 2023 when he was in London.

The Interpol has formally certified that Elahi, 49, is not currently the subject of any Interpol notice or diffusion based on Pakistan's request seeking criminal charges and extradition of the PTI leader.

A credible source at the organisation told media that Barcelona-based PTI leader "Elahi is not listed in its system under any form of international alert" after an investigation that lasted nearly two years.

Credible sources at the Interpol have confirmed that it dropped a long-running investigation into Elahi after establishing that not enough evidence exists against him of the alleged wrongdoings, as complained by the Pakistani authorities. Correspondence sent by the Pakistani authorities to Interpol alleged that Elahi is sought in Pakistan by the Federal Investigation Agency (FIA), National Accountability Bureau (NAB), Anti-Corruption Establishment

(ACE) and Punjab Police for murder, money laundering, bribery, fraud and misuse of authority. The Pakistani authorities had repeatedly asked Interpol for a Red Notice and extradition in money-laundering and other cases since early 2023, requesting that Interpol hand over the PTI leader and former federal minister to Pakistani authorities. In February and July 2024, the FIA told courts that a Red Notice request for Elahi was with Interpol and still "under process". —RT/Agency

Justice Shams Mehmood Mirza resigns from Lahore High Court bench

LAHORE: Justice Shams Mehmood Mirza has resigned as Lahore High Court (LHC) judge due to "personal reasons", sources said on Saturday.

As per the insiders, Justice Mirza submitted his resignation to President Asif Ali Zardari.

The judge was ranked fifth in seniority at the LHC and also served as a member of its administration committee.

Appointed as an additional judge in 2014, Justice Mirza's supernumerary was scheduled for March 6, 2028.

His resignation comes just two days after the National Assembly passed the 27th Constitutional Amendment, making changes to the judicial structure and military command.

The amended bill finetunes the structure of the newly established Federal Constitutional Court (FCC), clarifies the titles and ranking of the country's top judges, and drops several clauses from the Senate-approved draft that had sought to alter oath-related provisions for various constitutional offices.

The latest move follows the resignations of Supreme Court judges Justice Mansoor Ali Shah and Justice Athar Minallah, who had issued letters strongly criticising the 27th Amendment.

The jurists had criticised the 27th Amendment, describing it as a "grave assault on the Constitution of Pakistan". However, the federal government called the judges' resignations "political speeches" and the latter's allegations "unconstitutional". RT/Agency

US weighs dramatic nuclear test revival, pushes high-stakes F-35 deal with Saudi Arabia

US: The United States will resume nuclear testing in line with other nations, President Donald Trump said, while also confirming he is weighing a potential agreement to supply Saudi Arabia with F-35 fighter jets. He did not clarify whether the testing plans involve detonating a nuclear warhead. "I don't want to tell you about that, but we will do nuclear testing like other countries," Trump told reporters aboard Air Force One as he travelled to Florida for the weekend. Trump last month ordered the US military to immediately restart the process for testing nuclear weapons after 33 years, making the surprise announcement on Truth Social while aboard his Marine One helicopter flying to meet Chinese President Xi Jinping for a trade-negotiating session in Busan, South Korea.

F-35s deal with Saudi Arabia in the offing. Trump also said that he is considering agreeing to a deal to supply Saudi Arabia with F-35 stealth fighter jets, which are made by Lockheed Martin. "They wanna buy a lot of jets," Trump told reporters. "I'm looking at that. They've asked me to look at it. They want to buy a lot of '35s' - but they want to buy actually more than that, fighter jets." The potential sale comes as Trump plans to host Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman at the White House next week, when they are expected to sign economic and defence agreements. Asked about the talks, Trump told reporters it was "more than a meeting, we're honouring" Saudi Arabia. Meanwhile, President Trump is expected to reach a deal with Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, allowing Riyadh to acquire F-35 stealth fighter jets, Bloomberg News reported citing a White House official. —RT/Agency

Pakistan's Asia-leading bond surge expected to continue as global investors reopen access

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan's dollar bonds are expected to extend their Asia-leading rally as recent credit-rating upgrades and plans to re-enter global debt markets lift investor sentiment, according to Bloomberg.

The government intends to issue yuan-denominated bonds later this year and to return to the Eurobond market in 2026 for the first time in nearly five years, a key milestone for a country that came close to default two years ago. The move could spur further gains in debt, according to Goldman Sachs Asset Management and UBS Asset Management. These planned issues highlight Pakistan's effort to diversify its funding sources and curb reliance on the International Monetary Fund. So far this year, its dollar bonds have delivered a 24.5% return, the highest in Asia. Danske Bank Asset Management, which bought Pakistan's dollar bonds at the peak of its financial crisis two years ago, has increased its holdings several times this year, said Soren Morch, head of emerging markets debt. "We are optimistic that Pakistan will stay on the reform course, rebuilding buffers like higher dollar reserves and also getting market access and taking advantage of that," he told Bloomberg. S&P Global Ratings and Fitch Ratings have both upgraded Pakistan's sovereign rating this year, pointing to better fiscal management and reform momentum. Under Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif's International Monetary Fund (IMF) backed programmes, the government has obtained billions in IMF funding by raising taxes and keeping fiscal policy discipline. "The outperformance will sustain as long as they're sticking to the IMF policies, which we believe they have a strong commitment to do so," said Shamaila Khan, head of fixed income emerging markets and Asia Pacific at UBS Asset Management. A potential reopening of market access for Pakistan is another support, she added, because "then you really are not concerned about refinancing over the next two to three years." —RT/Agency

Massive blast rocks industrial zone south of Argentina capital

ARGENTINA: Powerful explosions rocked an industrial area and ignited a fire south of Buenos Aires on Saturday, officials said, with at least 22 people sent to the hospital.

The incident occurred inside the Spagazzini Industrial Park in Ezeiza, where multiple factories were affected. "The explosions and fire breaking out in the different factories are huge," said Gaston Granados, mayor of Ezeiza where the events unfolded. He said the cause of the explosions was unknown. TV footage showed thick smoke pouring from the industrial area, while dramatic videos on social media captured towering flames and a powerful shockwave sweeping through the area.

The blast, felt across Ezeiza and Canelas, shattered windows in nearby homes, and some residents told local media they saw an object fall from the sky moments before impact. Hospital director Carlos Santoro said his facility had received 22 injured people. According to local media, five factories were hit by the explosions and fire. The industrial area features companies making tyres and chemical products, among other goods. Granados said the flames affected several plants in the industrial park. "One of them is a chemical plant, where the warehouses caught fire, and where there are facilities related to agriculture and fertilisers. There is also a plastics plant called Plásticos Lago," he told local media.

Granados described the scene as chaotic. "It's all very confusing. We're trying to ensure safety in the area and evacuate anyone who might be nearby. Fire crews are working to combat the intense fire that's burning in all areas," he said. The mayor confirmed that 15 fire crews responded to the emergency.
